News Summary.

A letter from Hilton Head, dated October 29, to the Savannah Herald, mentions that the schooner Willie Dill, from New York, at Port Royal, picked up, off Charleston, on Friday last, a boat belonging to the steamship Republic, containing twentythree of the passengers and crew of that vessel. The following are the parties as they are report-

Capt. Hawthorne, wife and two children, Thomas Fleming, James M. Haney, Hiram F. Flanders, Judge John E. Sundstrom, of New Orleans, Mr. Lenoir, Miss Lenoir, Mrs. Caroline Waldrom. Crew—James Muldoon, 1st engineer, John Gardner, 2d engineer, Augustus Shylock, 2d steward, Amos Pool, storekceper, Abraham Lyons, William Perry, Patrick Hurley, Nathaniel Bachman, John Caffery, Patrick Nudham, William Porter, James Lee.

They will be sent North from Port Royal, by the steamship Guiding Star, now at that port.

We were gratified to learn, yesterday, that the fourth boat, in charge of the 2d officer, Mr. E. Ryan, with eleven persons on board, had reached the harbor of Port Royal in safety. They suffered intensely for want of water, and were out four days. All the boats of the Republic have now reached a harbor in safety, and the raft alone remains to be heard from. Every day brings farther information of the great disasters at sea, arising from the effects of the late severe gale, which extended its ravages all along the coast. The steamship General Barnes, at Savannah, from New Orleans, Pensacola and Key West, reports that at the latter place it blew a hurricane, on the 22d of October, causing much damage, and sinking, dismantling, and driving yessels ashore all around. Saw a large English ship ashore and bilged outside of Fort Taylor. The steamer Herman Livingston arrived at Key West on the 27th, short of coal, and had been in the hurricane; she picked up the English bark Margaret, dismasted, from New Orleans for Europe, with cotton, but was forced to leave her, having parted all her hawsers. The Barnes left Key West on the 28th; thirty miles east of Sombrero, saw the bark Margaret in tow of the steamship Victor, bound west. At 3 P. M., same day, five miles south of Carrysfoot, saw a steamer ashore with a signal of distress flying; ran down as close as possible, and communicated with her. Found her to be the Catharine Whiling, from New York for Galveston; she went on the same day while having in tow the English brig Fairhaven, dismasted, loaded with cotton, from Galveston for Liverpool-was unable to render any assistance, both being so far on the reef. The Whiting reported having picked up two men from the wreck of a schooner, the remainder of the vessel's company having been washed overboard. Her name was not remembered. On the 29th, at 6 A. M. passed a bark, with mainmast gone; also, a ship with loss of fore and mizzen topmasts. When military courts of the government will be con-Carrysfoot Reef was in sight, counted seven vessels ashore and dismantled.

The N. Y. Herald says: "We would call the attention of the Board to the importance of replacing at once the lightship on Frying Pan Shoals; also the light on Tybee Island, mouth of Savannah River. There are at present five different lines of steamships running to Savannah, and three to Charleston, carrying valuable cargoes and many hundreds of passengers weekly, and yet there has not been a single light re-established between Cape Lookout and the coast of Florida. Cape Romain, Charleston light and Hunting Island light, are all still in the dark. The increasing have had few points of contact with an excommerce of our coast and the public safety demand some action in this important matter. The neglect of the Board may be the means of affording the public journals some interesting items, in the shape of appalling disasters and fearful loss of fitman life during the coming winter months."

nd ence from Columbia will be read with interest. Our correspondent says that from all that can be learned, Col. One has been elected Governor of the State by a small majority. His reports of the proceedings of the Legislature will be found quite full, and the subjects discussed are of much interest. We also publish to-day an interesting letter from New York, together with other matter, which will repay perusal.

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger says: "What President Johnson will do, I hear, is to throw the 'Empire,' Louis Napo-LEON and the Monroe Doctrine upon Congress and leave it for that body to say whether Max. shall be politely told to quit, or whether we shall do as all Europe has done, recognize him as the constituted authority in that country.

The Jackson (Mississippi) News goes deep into the Freedmen's Bureau for their unauthorized and arbitrary plan of taking possession of the finest estates in the country, and leasing them to whites or blacks before any decree of confiscation, or even provisional seizure, has been rendered against the legitimate owners.

JOSEPH E. WORCESTER, author of Worcestor's Dictionary, died at Cambridge (Mass.), on the 27th October, aged 81.

A canal large enough for ships is projected be tween Lakes Huron and Ontario. It will be about one hundred miles in length, and will present seventy miles without lockage. The cost is estimated at forty million of dollars. It is thought that the work will pour into Lake Ontario a large portion of the products of the West, and tend to cheapen the high freights that are now demanded by the Senate of the United States will, we are as- the trial such responsibility imposes. sured, be received with cordial approbation. There are many considerations which partien to the conviction that it is not only expedient, larly commend him to that office at the pre- but right, that the negro should have the prisent time. Distinguished for character and vilege of appearance in our courts. It may not ability, of acknowledged honesty in his con- be necessary that he should appear in all of tical course, he can scarcely fail to command respect, and achieve a proper measure of suc-While, at the present time, when there is the acceptable to the Government-when it is faction now dominant in Congress, and vigilant to mark the grounds upon which exception. For the reason that it is sworn to, it tion may be taken-it is important that these shall not only be agreeable to the Government, but as nearly unexceptionable to Congress as, in consistence with distinction and ability, they can be.

With these requisitions Governor PERRY, in a very eminent degree, complies. That he s agreeable to the Government is evident from his appointment to the office he at present holds; and though in sympathy with the people of our State in the sufferings and sacpower in Congress, which would not, if affording sufficient ground for his exclusion, afford ground for the exclusion, also, of any possible delegation from the Southern States.

It is proper to acknowledge, also, that, in the almost boundless patronage and power; and it is but fair to confess that he made no selfish use of it. He has had no friends to reward with the many offices in this State, which were all in his hands to be filled; no enemies to punish by deprivation; but, in deference to the judgment of his fellow-citizens, expressed in their election, he continued all in office who had been previously appointed, and he now descends from his distinguished position with the common acknowledgment that he used its every power to the single object of the restoration of the State to constitutional relations with her sister States, and the re-establishment of peace, law, and order, within its limits.

THE QUESTION of negro testimony has been considered much of late, and must soon come prominently before the people of this State in the Colored Code submitted to the Legislature. And though we feel naturally averse to a subject about which there must be contrariety of feeling and opinion, and would avoid position upon this, if that were consistent, still deeming that it is not-that it approaches, and that we must act upon it intelligently or notwe have no further hesitation in declaring our conviction that such testimony, under proper conditions, ought to be admitted.

This is, perhaps, necessary to the restoration of civil law. There is, at present, exhibited by authority, having the power, whether the right or not, is no matter, the purpose to withhold the cases involving the rights of colored persons from those courts where his testimony cannot be taken; and it is quite possible that this position will be adhered to-that he will not be left subject to adjudication in any court in which he cannot be heard in his own cause; and that, until such point be conceded, the tinued, the full restoration of civil authority postponed, and a foreign institution inserted here, between the slaves and whites, which will sweep all that is best and fairest from its track of ruin.

But, if not necessary to the complete restoration of civil law, it has the still higher merit of being right. There has been little occasion, hitherto, for negro testimony. They ternal world. They traded little-had few opportunities of collision with any other authority than that in control of the place on which they lived. From evils, there, they were protected by considerations of interest, and from evils abroad by the power, and, when necessary, by the utmost resources of the master. Under these circumstances, their rights were seldom in question; and, when questioned, were so abundantly guarded by the intervening interests of a master, that it was seldom necessary for them to provide the means of their own defence, and unnecessary to be provided with the power of appearance in court in competition with a member of the ruling race.

But this is changed. From being the best protected human creature in the world, he is now the worst. He must now not only enter into all the contracts necessary to his own subsistence and preservation, but into all the contacts and collisions to which these contracts lead him. At every step he is met by antagonistic rights, which will be enforced against him with the perfect severity of interest. His color, also, will constitute a distinction to sharpen contact. That has hitherto been a principle of protection; but it will be so no longer. Without the relation which that color has implied, and the requisites and charities to which it has entitled him, he will be, for reason of it, only the more exposed to occasions in which his rights must be contested; and, charged with the responsibility of self-preservation, he must, of necessity, be vested with

It is possible it may be better, and it seems to be proposed, to have a tribunal specially constituted to the trial of such cases as cess, in the responsible duties of that office. involve the rights of negroes. But into whatever court it is proposed to introduce want of a representative not only of ability, such causes, it is proper there should, also, be but of a character and record to render him the right to introduce the testimony necessary to sustain them. It may not be necessary that reasonably certain that the admission of our this testimony should be on outh; their staterepresentatives will be resisted by at least a ment, without oath, may be as much considered as if swora to. But to the oath we see no objecwill not be more conclusive. The credibility of the witness will, at best, be considered, whether his testimony be on oath or not; and if the oath shall have the tendency to make them speak the truth, there is no reason why that additional security should not be taken.

Nor is it necessary that testimony should be taken in any case in which the rights of colored persons are not involved. The occasion for such testimony indicates the limit to its introduction. There is occasion that the negro rifices of their recent contest, he was too little should give testimony in any case involving identified with the movement to present in his his rights, and to that extent it ought to be record a point of opposition to the dominant received; but there is none that he should give such testimony in cases not involving the rights of colored persons; and as it is an innovation, and, therefore, objectionable, and as there are no overruling considerations of policy or propriety to commend the introduction duties of his present office, he has deserved of such testimony into the ordinary adjudicawell of his State. He entered on a realm of tion of the country, it is obviously proper into such adjudication it should not be introduced.

> PERSONAL.-By the following note it will be seen that Mr. JULIAN MITCHELL, who for the past six weeks has been laboring in Washington to bring about the restoration of the sea island lands, now so happily in process of accomplishment, is just returned from his useful mission, bringing official certificates of pardon for several of our citizens: CHARLESTON, November 1, 1865.
